UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN TO START SOON

Nov. 11 to 18 is the Date and Lawrence County's Quota Is $9,000.00.

The next war work of great importance to be done by the home people in general is that of raising over $900,000.00 in the United States to carry on the work of the Y. M. C. A., K. of C., Jewish Welfare, etc. Heretofore these campaigns have been made separately. This time all are combined in one to save having so many drives, which is a much better plan.

Mr. B. E. Adams is chairman of the drive in Lawrence county. The quota will be about $9,000. The campaign will be short, lasting only from Nov. 11th to the 18th.

All plans will be announced next week and the campaign will be pushed to the limit.

DIES IN CAMP.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson Wells have received word of the death of their son in-law, Mr. Anglin, which occurred a few days ago at Camp Meade, Md. The cause of his death was influenza. His wife, who was Miss Carrie Wells, was very ill at her home in Baltimore at the same time. His remains were sent to the home of his parents in Oklahoma for burial.

DIED AFTER SHORT ILLNESS.

The death of Mrs. Blanche Millem Moxley occurred at her home at Gary, W. Va., last Thursday after a short illness. Only about 10 days before her death she had accompanied the body of her father, Dock Millem, to Ft. Gay for burial. She was his youngest child and was the granddaughter of Rev. and Mrs. S. F. Reynolds, of this place.

THREE DIE IN ONE FAMILY.

At the home of Thompson Perry, on Mill Creek near Glenhays, Mr. Perry, his wife and son are very low with influenza. Only one boy is able to be around. Their son, Bob Perry, and his six-year-old daughter died. He leaves a wife and two children. The wife of another son, Jay Perry, died leaving two children.

Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Cockran, of Parkersburg, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Roberts of Greenup, who came on to see the family are all seriously ill with influenza. Mrs. Cockran and Mrs. Roberts are remembered here as Misses Miffie and Billa Perry.

Mrs. Thompson Perry is a sister of Mrs. Thma. Branham and Mrs. Jas. Pinson, of this city.

VICTIM OF THE GRIP.

Mr. P. C. Collier, superintendent of the Williamson Coal Co., died at his home here Saturday morning, October 19, of pneumonia following an attack of laryngitis. Mr. Collier went to Williamson about four months ago from Norton, Va., to take charge of the Williamson Coal Co. plant. The body was taken to Norton. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Mrs. Cornutta Dies.

Mrs. Nora Cornutta died on Thursday night of last week of influenza at her home in Louisa. She is survived by four children. She was taken to her old home at Cordell for burial.

HI CARTER DEAD

On last Saturday the body of Hi Carter was brought from Weeksbury and was taken to the home of a relative, Mrs. Jas. A. Abbott. Interment was made on Sunday in the family burying ground at the old home near Yatesville. Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. H. O. Chambers of this city.

Hi Carter was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter, who moved from this county to Jenkins a few years ago. He was 14 years old. His death was caused by Spanish influenza.

Among those from Louisa who attended the funeral were Judge T. S. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Queen and Burton Queen, Mrs. Hester Carter, Gus Snyder and Augustus Snyder. The parents and a brother accompanied the remains from Weeksbury.

CURE FOR PNEUMONIA. IF USED IN TIME.

Mrs. L. T. McClure, of this city, has had pneumonia four times and she knows the following remedy in her good:

Chop fine or grind in a food chopper 12 or 15 large onions, cover with vinegar (cider vinegar is best) and put on fire. When it boils stir in rye flour to make a thick mush. Make two poultices to cover the chest all over and apply very hot over half hour for eight hours. Then cover the chest with cotton cloth well covered with Vlek's Vapn and a very hot cloth of several thicknesses. Keep the room should be well filled with fresh air coming in through a warm room if possible. Patient should stay in bed until all danger of a relapse is past. Drink three cups of hot water per day containing 15 drops of camphor. This will help the skin to throw off the poison from the body.

DEATH OF MRS. ARBIE WILSON

After an illness of many weeks Mrs. Arbie Wilson passed peacefully away at her home in this city about nine o'clock Thursday night October 24. On Saturday morning at 10 o'clock a brief service of prayer and song was held at this residence by Rev. J. T. Pope and interment followed in the Fulkerson cemetery. The funeral is to be preached at a later date.

Mrs. Wilson's health began to fail more than a year ago. She underwent a surgical operation hoping to be restored, but for quite a while it has been known by her physicians and family that she was hopelessly ill. She also suffered a mild attack of influenza. Her death came as a sad blow to her young husband and three little sons and also brings deep sorrow to her many relatives and friends. She was a home loving woman and was very devoted to her family. She was a faithful member of the Baptist Church.

Mrs. Wilson was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Felix See, of Lick Creek, and has lived in Louisa since her marriage a few years ago.

LAWRENCE COUNTY RED CROSS DOINGS

The Christmas cartons are here. Everything will be ready to promptly inspect and mail the filled cartons. Each carton will bear the inspector's seal. Robert Dixon, Jr., has been appointed inspector. Bring in your labels as soon as you get it.

A new auxiliary has been formed at Cherokee. In the Hot Call the auxiliary will canvass the territory covered by the auxiliary. We have 11 active auxiliaries and four communities where the work is being done but no organization at present.

Junior Red Cross. On account of the schools being closed we have delayed our first shipment till Friday, November 8. Send in dry shells. Credit will be given each school for the number of pounds the school sends in.

Sample "Story and Joke Books" are being made up and will be sent to schools when they resume school.

Two very interesting things are being planned for the Juniors between Nov. 1 and the end of the year.

1. There will be special recognition given by the American National Red Cross to the best four minute speeches prepared by school children on the subject, "Why You Should Join the Red Cross."
2. Each Chapter is asked to hold a Junior Red Cross Bazaar by the end of the year.

Junior Red Cross Bazaar.

The bazaar will give a motive for work in drawing and design. Industrial arts, manual training, sewing, millinery and cooking. Christmas cards, place cards, favors, novelties of various sorts, coat hangers, small pieces of furniture, toys, etc. can be made and sold at reasonable prices. The money to be placed in the Chapter School Fund.

School Certificates.

Certificates from the National American Red Cross are on hand for all the organized schools. Each school is asked to send in the exact name it wants on the certificates.

Home Service Section.

We have the following additions to our Field Representatives: Fletcher and Peacherd, M. F. Castle, Alma Castle and Jipay Vaughn, Cherokee, Anna Young.

The Home Service Section calls special attention to the following:

Disabled Sailors and Soldiers.

We have the following interesting communication and Home Service workers will soon be supplied with an interesting pamphlet showing their part of this important work:

"The Surgeon General is to have complete charge of the physical reconstruction of every disabled soldier and sailor. Everything that medical science can do for him is to be done. He is not to be discharged from the army or navy until he is as nearly restored as possible and equipped with such artificial devices as are necessary.

When everything that medicine and surgery can do for him have been done the disabled soldier and sailor is discharged. But the Government does not lose interest. Instead, it offers him through the Board of Vocational Education an opportunity to get an education at government expense. He may learn a trade or a business and while learning he is paid his usual soldier's pay or his compensation and his family allowance continues. He is thus encouraged to come back a skilled and able citizen and not a burden to himself or to society.

The Red Cross Home Service Sections must help the Government to put this great program over. It must explain to the family, to employers and to the public—and to the discouraged man the wisdom of taking advantage of these far reaching opportunities."

LOUISA BOYS ARRIVE IN CAMP

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gartin have received a letter from their son, Otto, who was written in France Oct. 12. He tells of his safe arrival there and says he stayed overnight in England. He finds "Bunny France" with more mud than sunshine at present. His address is Sgt. Otto C. Gartin, Co. F, 149 U. S. Infantry, A. B. E. Wm. Myers of this city is in the same company.

CONGRESSMAN FIELD MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT TO CONSTITUENTS

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE NINTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF KENTUCKY.

As the election is near at hand, and the continuous session of Congress and my duties as Ranking Member of the House Military Committee have made it impossible for me to canvass the district and personally solicit the support of my friends, which I had very much hoped to do, I employ this method of conferring with them in regard to my campaign for re-election to Congress.

My opponent, Mr. Snedegar, with his running mate, Dr. Bruner, and their Campaign Managers, are making a hard "Gum Shoe" fight to induce all who favor his election to go to the polls on Tuesday, November 5th. I was advised early in the campaign that the Republican Headquarters at Louisville had decided that the most effective method to employ in support of Mr. Snedegar was to keep his candidacy in the back-ground, and center their fight in the Ninth District on the Senatorial race, feeling that by that effort they would bring to the polls their full vote and that Mr. Snedegar would receive the benefit of same, and that by the employment of that method they would not antagonize or arouse my friends, which would probably result in the failure of many of them to go to the polls through the belief that I really had no effective opposition.

"Gum Shoe" methods by the minority and over-confidence by the majority have often resulted in the defeat of the candidate who was the choice of a large majority of the people. I therefore trust that my friends will not be over-confident of my election to the extent that they will fail to go to the polls and support me with both their influence and their vote on ELECTION DAY, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 5th.

As Ranking Member of the House Military Committee, I have exerted my best efforts in the framing and enactment of legislation essential to the prosecution of the war and the proper care and protection of our soldiers and their dependences. Your endorsement of my efforts by your vote for my re-election will be gratifying indeed, and will be appreciated by me beyond the power of words to express. Thanking you in advance for your expression of confidence, and your efforts in my behalf, I am,

Very truly yours,
W. J. FIELDS.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS

The war industries board has ordered all newspapers to cease carrying a subscriber after his subscription has expired. In other words the news paper is no longer allowed to extend credit in its business. Its business must be cash or not at all. It can be seen at once that this order is a great blow to those newspapers which always extended credit to a subscriber.

Nov. 15th is the date for this order to become effective and we trust all will give the matter immediate attention. We appreciate your patronage and hope you will continue on our list.

MUFFLE THE AUTOS.

There is an ordinance against running automobiles in Louisa with the muffler cut out, but it is being violated every day, to the annoyance of everybody. A few fines would put an end to this nuisance, which is not permitted in any of the cities.

OIL NEAR LOUISA

A well just completed on the farm of C. B. Peters, two miles from Louisa makes a good showing and is believed to be a paying well. It was drilled by the New Domain Co.

It is believed by some oil men that oil would be found under Louisa if a well were drilled to the Berea sand.

JAMES EVANS, JR.

Merleth Evans died at his home on the Kentucky side of the river opposite Naugatuck last week from influenza and complications. He was about 36 years of age and a veteran of the Spanish-American war.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank many friends and relatives who so willingly aided us after the death of our dear little Lucy and for the beautiful floral offerings.

ALLIES KEEPING RIGHT AFTER THE HUN HOSTS

Germany and Austria Want to Negotiate for Peace, Surrender Demanded.

Austria and Turkey apparently want peace very badly, but have not yet surrendered. They are having all kinds of internal troubles, according to reports.

Germany continues to nibble at the peace proposition, but nothing but surrender will be accepted. The Allied generals are now making terms of armistice to offer Germany. Ludendorff, the military leader, has resigned, but that may be only to deceive the world.

The allied armies continue to win everywhere. The Germans are gradually moving out of Belgium and France. The entire situation looks good for the allies, but there is no assurance of peace soon.

OPERATOR AT CHAPMAN DIES

Carroll Kerns, telegraph operator at Chapman, eight miles east of Louisa, died Wednesday night of pneumonia following influenza. His body will be taken to Aden, Carter county, for burial. He was a fine young man. A brother died of the same disease a few days ago and two other brothers are sick with the disease. Mr. Kerns was married only about six months ago.

GLENWOOD STOCK SALE! A BIG SUCCESS.

The Shorthorn sale held at the Belcher's Stock Farm, Glenwood, Ky., was very satisfactory. The cows averaged $225, the heifers $162.50 and calves $99. The sale was very well attended considering the influenza epidemic. Buyers from the Bluegrass who took some of the highest priced stuff were T. J. Bigstaff and T. B. Hill, of Mt. Sterling while buyers from this and adjoining counties took the younger stock. This was the first purebred stock sale ever held in this end of the State and no doubt will be beneficial to those who are laying the foundation for a purebred Shorthorn herd here in the mountain counties. The cattle sold were from the Belcher Stock Farm, the V. B. Shortridge Stock Farm and the Tobe French farm.

KINSEY CASE REVERSED.

The case of L. L. Kinsey, convicted of gibbony at the July term, has been reversed by the Court of Appeals and he has been released on bond. We are informed that he is to receive a new trial because a definite sentence rather than indeterminate was given in the case.

CHURCH SERVICES.

The influenza situation is so much services may safely be resumed in Louisa next Sunday. No official announcement has been made at the time of writing this, but will probably follow.

MOVE FROM BLAINE.

Loss Evans and family have moved from Blaine to their property on Lock avenue recently purchased from Mrs. Jennie Conley.

THE SCHOOLS

It is expected that Kentucky Normal College and Louisa public schools will open next Monday.

The country schools will not open next Monday. Conditions are improving in most neighborhoods, but Capt. Ekers is disposed to wait until he hears from the State Superintendent.

BURIAL AT FT. GAY.

The body of Mrs. Fred Ferguson was brought from Huntington, W. Va., to Fort Gay, W. Va., last Friday for burial. She died on Thursday from pneumonia following influenza. She was 30 years of age and was born in this county. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Hampton, of Ft. Gay. Six years ago she moved to Huntington, a husband, one daughter, Esther Louise, and a son, Hampton, survive.

Wilson Wants Stanley

And a Democratic Congress

ELECT MEN WHO WILL FIGHT THE KAISER, NOT WILSON— SUPPORTERS, NOT CRITICS

STANLEY STANDS WITH WILSON IN PEACE AS WELL AS IN WAR

EMINENT MINISTERS INDORSE
STANLEY FOR SENATOR

All Other Issues Must Give Way, Says Dr. W.
W. Landrum, One of Louisville's Foremost Temperance Advocates.

October 11, 1918.

Dear Brother:

Grace, mercy and peace be with thee.

In a Louisville morning paper I read to-day a report of a certain resolution said to have been passed by the Western Baptist Association.
The title of the paper's report is
"Vote as You Pray."

All Baptists should vote as they pray. Just now the burden of our prayer should be that the world may be made safe for democracy. Lloyd George, premier of Great Britain, as you know, the most distinguished Baptist in the world, wrote Mr. Coleman, president of the Northern Baptist Convention: "Tell the Baptist brotherhood that we are fighting for Baptist principles."

Baptist principles are democratic principles. Democratic principles are to-day in this country in the hands of the Democratic party. A Democratic President is the mouthpiece of that party. His word will close the war and determine matters after the war. Behind him every lover of democratic principles should stand today.

I am a prohibitionist, but prohibition is res adjudicata. The Kentucky

Legislature has passed the prohibition amendment. Congress has voted us a dry nation. National prohibition is as dead an issue as slavery or free silver.

The one great issue is the winning of the war and the settlement of the momentous questions arising after the war. Those questions must be settled by the party that always sustains the President.

I believe our brother Gatcliffe voted
as he prayed when he voted to nominate Gov. Stanley for Senator. I believe Senator Frost spoke as he prayed when he introduced Gov. Stanley along with Senator Beckham. I believe Hon. H. V. McChesney votes as he prays when he supports Gov. Stanley for Senator. I know of no more conscientious Baptists in Kentucky.
And there are others.

With malice towards none and with charity for all, insisting as we do on Baptist individualism and conscientiousness, I am willing to place myself
among those of our brotherhood who believe that this is the time for all men to be sure they are in perfect accord with our President. Gov.
Stanley is such a man and the President can rely on him during and after the war.

With all good wishes and high regards fraternally to whom this era of justice has been a pleasant dream, and who have been somewhat skeptical of all politicians and their promises (even of Wilson
at the outset) are now confident that they have as a President a man whose thought moves on as lofty a pitch as theirs, and who also has the political acumen to translate those ideals into legislation. OUR CONFIDENCE IS IN WOODROW WILSON. Let me quote from a recent magazine issue:

"Progressive citizens of whatever party have adopted President Wilson as their leader."

The crucial matter in this campaign is not what Stanley or Bruner will do while the war is on, but what they will do when the war is ended. Either man will fight the war through to a finish—it would be his finish if he did not. But the probabilities are that one man would follow the leadership of his party chieftain and go WHERE WOODROW WILSON IS GOING, while the other man would line up with one of the two sections of the Republican party. It is on that "probability" that I FAVOR WHOLE HEART-EDLY THE ELECTION OF STANLEY AS OUR SENATOR. Wilson has the ideas and the ideals; he needs now the chance to put them into law. I am for giving him the MAN HE WANTS so that full responsibility can be thrust on him for any failure, if there is failure.

To my mind these vast and world-significant matters of social justice, or economic right, or political liberty demand with compelling voice that every man who loves his fellow shall vote for Stanley as a Wilson man.

Sincerely, LESLIE L. SANDERS, Pastor First Baptist Church.

"I earnestly desire the election
of Governor Stanley to the Victorious Peace.

Wilson Wants a Democratic Congress To

Boys Back Home.

Supported by a Senate in thorough accord with his wise policies and lofty ideas, Woodrow Wilson will speedily bring peace and order to a distracted world. This glorious day will be delayed if he and his party are repudiated at the polls and Lodge and Penrose and their faithful follower, Dr. Bruner, are permitted to heckle and harass him. Every day's unnecessary continuance of this struggle means the loss of precious lives, means weary hours of waiting for the return of our loved ones.

Support Wilson, his party and his followers for the sake of our brave boys abroad; indorse him for the sake of their loved ones at home. Gladden the great heart of the first citizen of the world by a vote of confidence on November 5.

Stanley Indorsed By Labor

It is my most earnest wish that Mr. Stanley may continue to serve all of the people of the nation, and particularly the wage earners as an official representative in public office.

Fraternally yours,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

Cadiz Minister Exposes Campaign Canard

My attention has been called to a statement in the Louisville press that all six preachers in our town were opposed to the election of Stanley as Senator. The author of that pronouncement had never consulted me. I am not a Democrat in politics, and am not now interested one hair's breadth in the partisan phases of this campaign. But my sober judgment of the issues involved compel me to favor the election of Mr. Stanley in preference to Mr. Bruner. Certain Baptist Associations in Western Kentucky have seen fit in the exercises of their inalienable right to urge our people to vote against Mr. Stanley, but to that advice I cannot consent.

The prohibition question is a negligible matter in this campaign. That issue has reached such a stage that no matter which man is elected, his vote will fall on the right side. Mr. Stanley's personal habits—past or present—do not determine on which side his vote will be cast. When nation-wide probi-tation comes to a vote, good sense and good politics will put Stanley on the prohibition side. But, were his vote known to be against nation-wide prohibition, I should still emphatically favor his election.

The support of the President in the prosecution of this war is also a secondary matter. Both
Mr. Bruner and Mr. Stanley can be depended upon to fight this war through to a finish. In the present fever-heat of American patriotism, it would not be good sense or good politics for a Senator not to do so.
Were the patriotic prosecution of this war the issue between these two men, I would not turn my hand over for the difference between them.

The issue in this campaign is greater and more vital than either of the things named. That issue is this: Shall certain definite ideals of social, economic and political justice for the world be realized. For the first time in many years we seem to have a President whose thinking is as clear and thorough as his purpose is positive and unshakable. Thinkers and idealists to whom this era of justice has been a pleasant dream, and who have been somewhat skeptical of all politicians and their promises (even of Wilson
at the outset) are now confident that they have as a President a man whose thought moves on as lofty a pitch as theirs, and who also has the political acumen to translate those ideals into legislation. OUR CONFIDENCE IS IN WOODROW WILSON. Let me quote from a recent magazine issue:

"Progressive citizens of whatever party have adopted President Wilson as their leader."

The crucial matter in this campaign is not what Stanley or Bruner will do while the war is on, but
what they will do when the war is ended. Either man will fight the war through to a finish—it would be his finish if he did not. But the probabilities are that one man would follow the leadership of his party
chieftain and go WHERE WOODROW WILSON IS GOING, while the other man would line up with one of the two sections of the Republican party. It is on that "probability" that I FAVOR WHOLE HEART-EDLY THE ELECTION OF STANLEY AS OUR SENATOR. Wilson has the ideas and the ideals; he needs now the chance to put them into law. I am for giving him the MAN HE WANTS so that full responsibility can be thrust on him for any failure, if there is failure.

To my mind these vast and world-significant matters of social justice, or economic right, or political liberty demand with compelling voice that every man who loves his fellow shall vote for Stanley as a Wilson man.

Sincerely, LESLIE L. SANDERS, Pastor First Baptist Church.

BECKHAM BACKS STANLEY

I have left the most pressing and urgent duties at the National Capital and traveled a thousand miles to bring to you this message that your President and his associates are watching with anxious and intense interest the outcome of this election in Kentucky and are hoping that you will not fail to show your appreciation of the splendid work which has been done by giving a vote of confidence on the November election day and electing to the Senate Gov. A. O. Stanley.

World Will Consider Election of Republican Congress a Repudiation of Wilson
President Says "A Vote For Bruner Is a Vote Against Me."
Democratic Defeat Would Hamper Nation At Critical Time.

"My Fellow Countrymen"

"The Congressional elections are at hand. They occur in the most critical period our country has ever faced or is likely to face in our time. If you have approved of my leadership and wish me to continue to be your unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad, I earnestly beg that you will express yourself
unmistakably to that effect by returning a Democratic majority to both the Senate and House of Representatives.

I am your servant and will accept your judgment without cavil, but my power to administer the great trust assigned me by the constitution would be seriously impaired, should your judgment be adverse, and I must frankly tell you so because so many critical issues depend upon your verdict. No scruple of taste must in grim times like these be allowed to stand in the way of speaking the plain truth.

Divided Leadership.

"I have no thought of suggesting that any political party is paramount in matters of patriotism. I feel too deeply the sacrifices which have been made in this war by all our citizens irrespective of party affiliations to harbor such an idea. I mean only that the difficulties and delicacies of our present task are of a sort that makes it imperative necessary that the nation should give its undivided support to the government under a unified leadership and that a Republican Congress would divide the leadership.

Interpretation Abroad.

"The return of a Republican majority to either House of the Congress would, moreover, be interpretative on the other side of the water as a repudiation of my leadership. Spokesmen of the Republican party are urging you to elect a Republican Congress in order to back up and support the President, but even if they should
in this impose upon some credulous voters on this side of the water, they would impose on no one on the other side. It is well understood there as well as here that the Republican leaders desire not so much to support the President as to control him.

"The people of the Allied countries with whom we are associated against Germany are quite familiar with the significance of elections. They would find it very difficult to believe that the voters of the United States had so chosen to support their President by electing to the Congress a majority controlled by those who are in fact not in sympathy with the attitude and action of the administration.

For Sake of Nation.

"I need not tell you, my fellow countrymen, that I am asking your support not for my own sake or for the sake of a political party, but for the sake of the nation itself. In order that its inward unity of purpose may be evident to all the world. In ordinary times I would not feel at liberty to make such an appeal to you.
In ordinary times divided counsels can be endured without permanent hurt to the country. But these are not ordinary times.

"If in these critical days it is your wish to sustain me with undivided minds, I beg that you will say so in a way which it will not be possible to misunderstand either at home or among our associates on the other side of the sea. I submit my difficulties and my hopes to you.

"WOODROW WILSON."

funny when they had to tell their names to old friends of theirs, who did not recognize them. As soon as one of the first people recognized a friend of his he would go to get cigarettes and other things for him and some of them almost beat us to the hospital.

I do not know, of course, just what the surgeons did to me, but I heard that they had my eyeball out on my cheek for almost two hours. At any rate they saved it. The thigh wounds were not dangerous in themselves and if it had not been for the rough treatment they got later on they would be quite healed by this time, I am sure.

I really think I got a little extra attention in the hospital in many ways, for the French were at all times anxious to show their friendliness to America. Every time my meals were served there was a little American flag on the plate and always a large American flag draped over the bed. I had everything I wanted given to me at once and when I was able to eat, the cigarettes I could smoke, which were not many.

While I was still in bed in the hospital I received the Croix de Guerre.

I Received the Croix de Guerre.

which I had won at the Dardanelles. The presentation was made by Lieutenant Harbey. He pinned an American flag on my breast, a French flag beneath it and beneath that the war cross. He kissed me on both cheeks, of course, which was taking advantage of a cripple. But it is the usual thing with the French, as you know—I mean the kissing, not the meanness to cripples.

When he had pinned the medal on he said he thanked me from the bottom of his heart for the French people, and also thanked all the Americans who had come over from their own land to help a country with which most of them were not connected. He said it was a war in which many nations were taking part, but in which there were just two ideas, freedom and despotism, and a lot more things that I cannot remember. He finished by saying that he wished he could decorate all of us.

Of course it was great stuff for me and I thought I was the real thing sure enough, but I could not help thinking of the remark I have heard here in the States—"I thank you and the whole family thanks you." And it was hard not to laugh. Also it seemed funny to me, because I did not rightly know just what they were giving me the medal for—though it was for one of two things—and I do not know to this day. But I thought it would not be polite to ask, so I let it go at that.

There were twelve other naval officers who were present and they and all the other people did a lot of cheering and vied me to a fare-you-well. It was great stuff, altogether, and I should have liked to get a medal every day.

One day I received a letter from a man who had been in my company in the Foreign Legion and with whom I had been pretty chummy. His letter was partly in French and partly in English. It was all about who had been killed and who had been wounded. He also mentioned Murray's death, which he had heard about, and about my receiving the Croix de Guerre. I was wishing he had said something about Brown, whom I had not heard from and who I knew would visit me if he had the chance.

But two or three days later I got another letter from the same man and when I opened it out tumbled a photograph. At first all I saw was that it was the photograph of a man crucified with bayonets, but when I looked at it closely I saw it was Brown. I faintly then, just like a girl.

when I came to I could hardly make myself think about it. Two of my pals gone! It hurt me so much to think of it that I crushed the letter up in my hand, but later on I could read parts of it. It said they had found Brown this way near Dixmude about two days after he had been reported missing. So three of us went over and two stayed there. It seems very strange to me that both of my pals should be crucified and if I were superstitious I do not know what I would think about it. It made me sick and kept me from recovering as fast as I would have done otherwise. Both Brown and Murray were good pals and very good men in a fight. I often think of them both and about the things we did together, but lately I have tried not to think about them much because it is very sad to think what torture they must have had to stand. They were both of great credit to this country.

The American consul visited me quite often and I got to calling him Sherlock because he asked so many questions. We played lots of games together, mostly with dice, and had a great time generally. After I became convalescent he argued with me that I had seen enough, and though I really did think so—however much I disliked what I had seen—he got my discharge from the service on account of physical inability to discharge the usual duties. After I had been at the hospital for a little over a month I was discharged from it, after a little party in my ward with everyone taking part and all the horns blowing and all the records except my favorite dirge played one after another.

Sherlock arranged everything for me—my passage to New York, clothing, etc. I ran up to St. Nazaire and saw my grandmother, loafed around a while and also visited Lyons.

After a short time I returned to Boston and got my passage on the George for New York. I had three trunks with me full of things I had picked up around Europe and had been keeping with my grandmother. Among my belongings were several things I should like to show by photograph in this book, but no one but mermaids can see them now, for down to the locker of Davy Jones they went.

CHAPTER XVI.

Captured by the Moewe.

When the tugs had cast off and after a while we had dropped our pilot, I said to myself: "Now we are off, and it's the States for me—end of the line—far as we go—IF." But the "if" did not look very big to me, though I could see it with the naked eye all right.

I got up about four o'clock the next morning, which was Sunday, December 10, 1918—a date I do not think I will ever forget.

As soon as I was dressed I went down to the forecabin peak and from there into the paint locker, where I found some rope. Then back again on deck, and made myself a hammock, which I rigged up on the boat deck, figuring that I would have a nice sun bath, as the weather had at last turned clear.

As soon as I had the hammock strung I went down to the baker and had a nice chat with him—and stole a few hot buns, which was what I was really after—and away to the galley for breakfast. I was almost exactly amidsips, sitting on an old orange box. I had not been there long when Old Chips, the ship's carpenter, stuck his head in the door and sang out, "Ship on the starboard bow." I did not pay any attention to him, because ships on the starboard bow were no novelty to me, or on the port either. Chips was not crazy about looking at her, either, for he came in and sat on another box and began peering. He said he thought she was a tramp and that she flew the British flag astern.

I at once I could get hold of and went out on deck. I stepped out of the galley just in time to see the fun. The ship was just opposite us when away went our wireless and some of the boats on the starboard side, and then, boom! boom! and we heard the report of the guns. I heard the shrapnel whizzing around as just as I had many a time before. I jumped back in the galley and Chips and the cook were shaking so hard they made the pans rattle.

When the firing stopped I went up to the boat deck. I had on all of my clothing, but instead of shoes I was wearing a pair of wooden clogs. The man and boys were crazy—rushing around the deck and knocking each other down, and everybody getting in everybody else's way. We lowered our Jacob's ladders, but some of the men and boys were already in the water. Why they jumped I do not know.

Then the German raider Moewe headed right in toward us and I thought she was going to ram us, but she backed water about thirty yards away. She lowered a lifeboat and it made for the George, passing our men in the water as they came and crashing them on the head with boat-hooks when they could reach them. I noticed that there were red kegs in the German boat.

When the lifeboat reached the Jacob's ladders I went over to the port side of the George and then the Germans came over the side and hoisted up the kegs. The Germans were armed with bayonets and revolvers. Some of them went down into the engine room and opened the sea cocks. About this time some of the Limeys came up from the poop deck and I told them to stay where I was and that the Germans would take us over in lifeboats. Another squad of Germans hoisted eight of the dynamite kegs on their shoulders and down into No. 5 hold with them.

Men's time the Germans saw us up on the boat deck and came up after us. And over went the Limeys. But I waited and one or two more waited with me. When the Germans came up to us they had their revolvers out and were waving them around and yelling, "Gott strafe England!" and talking about "sehwehund". Then, the first thing I knew, I was kicked off into the sea. I slipped off my trousers and coat and clogs, and believe me, it was not a case of all dressed up and no place to go!

Then I swam hard and caught up to the Limeys who had jumped first. They were asking each other if they were downhearted and answering, "Not a bit of it, me lads," and trying to sing, "Lack up your troubles in your old kit bag," only they could not do much singing on account of the waves that slipped into their mouths every time they opened them. That was just like Limeys, though.

Some of the boys were just climbing up the Jacob's ladder on the Moewe when the old George let out an awful roar and up went the deck and the hatch high in the air in splinters. One fellow let go his hold on the ladder and went down and he never came up. The Germans were making for the Moewe in the lifeboat and we reached it just before they did. Up the ladder we went and over the side and the first thing we caught sight of was the German revolvers in our faces drilling us all into line.

The lifeboat brought back the ship's papers from the George and we had roll call. They kept us up on deck in our wet underwear and it was very cold indeed. Then the first mate and the old man and one of the German officers called off the names and we found we had fifty missing.

The Boche commander had gall enough to say that he was not there to kill men but to sink all ships that were supplying the allies! He said England was trying to starve Germany, but that they would never succeed and that Germany would starve the allies very soon.

After roll call some of us asked the Germans for clothes, or at least a place to dry ourselves in, but Fritz could not see us for the dust on the ocean and we just had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost. Then I went and sat down on the pipes that feed the deck winches. They had quite a head of steam in them and I was beginning to feel more comfortable when I got a good clout alongside of the head for sitting there and trying to keep warm. It was a German gally and he started calling me all the various kinds of schweinhunde he could think of and he could think of a lot.

Finally they mustered us all on another part of the deck, then drilled us down into the forecabin and read the martial law of Germany to us. At least I guess that is what it was. It might have been the "Help Wanted—Dog Catchers" column from the Itellin Lokal Tugabable for all most of us knew or cared. It shows what cards the Germans are—reading all those four-to-the-pound words to us shivering galleys, who did not give a tino in dozen whether we heard them or not. Fritz is like some other hot sketches—he is funniest when he does not mean to be. Every German is a vasservillo skit when he acts natural.

There were hammocks there and we jumped into them to get warm, but the Germans came down with their revolvers and bayonets and took the hammocks away and poured water on the decks and told us to sleep there. They could not have done a worse trick than that.

Then they put locks on the portholes and told us that anyone caught fiddling with the locks would be shot at once. This was because we might sight a British or French man-of-war at any time and as the Moewe was sailing under the British flag and trying to keep out of trouble they did not want us at the ports signaling our own warships for help. If they had hucked any of the killed ships and had a fight we would have died down there like rats.

The Moewe had already captured the Volture, Mount Temple, Cambrian Range and the King George and had the crews of these vessels between decks with us. These men told us how the Germans were treating them and it looked to me as though the evening would be spent in playlag games and a pleasant time would be had by all—not.

The crew of the Mount Temple were on deck working when the raider suddenly opened fire on them. Two or three men jumped into the water and the Germans turned a gun on them while they were swimming and killed them. That was just a sample of what had happened to them.

The men now began running up and down in a line to keep warm, but I took a little run on my own hook and treated myself to as much of a once-over of the ship as I could. I do not believe the Moewe had more than a three-fourths-inch armor plate, but being that she had three rows of pig iron, which made about a foot in thickness. There was nothing but cable strung along the deck and when I saw that I would have given anything to have had a crack at her with a 14-inch naval. And I sure wished hard enough that one of our ships would slip up on us, whether we were caught between decks or not. I went as far as the sentry would let me and I saw that she had three spare six-inch guns under the poop deck and two six-inch pieces mounted astern. The guns were mounted on an elevator and when the time came they ran the elevator up until the guns were on a level with the poop deck, but otherwise they were out of sight from other ships.

For our first meal they stung a big feed bag half full of ship biscuit—hardtack—to us and some dioxies of tea. After this festival we began running up and down the deck again, because it was the only way to keep warm. I guess we looked like some of the advertisements in magazines, where they show a whole family sitting around a Christmas tree in their underwear and telling each other that Whosis Unloas—the Roomy Kind—were just what they wanted from Santa. Only we did not have any Christmas trees to sit around. We must have looked funny, though, and I would have had a good laugh if I had not been so cold.

We could not go to sleep because the decks were wet, nor could we sit down with any comfort for the same reason. Besides, we thought we might back up against a British or a French cruiser at any minute and most of us thought we would stay up and get an eye full before we started for Davy's well-known locker.

About two bells the following morning the Moewe's engines began to groan and shake her up a bit and we could hear the blades jump out of the water every once in a while and tear away. She went ahead in this way for some time and we were hoping she was trying to get away from a cruiser and some of us were pulling for the cruiser to win and others hoping the Moewe would get her heels clear and keep us from getting ours.

The Huns were running up and down the deck yelling like wild men and one of our men began to yell too. He was delirious and after he yelled a bit he jumped up and made a pass at the sentry, who shot at him but missed. The shot missed me too, but not very much. Then they dragged the delirious man up on deck and Lord knows what they did with him, because we never saw him again. But we did not hear any sound that they might have made in shooting him.

Then the Huns began shelling and they kept it up for some time.

Then they ordered us up on deck to see the ship they had been firing at and when we came up the companion

The Huns Were Running Up and Down the Deck.

way they were just bringing the other ship's skipper aboard. It was the French collier St. Theodore, hove to off the starboard side with a prize crew from the Moewe aboard and wiggling to the raider.

Then the Huns began shouting and they roared us below deck again. The place where we had been was filled with smoke, from what or why I do not know, but it was almost impossible to breathe in it. When the smoke cleared up a hit the Murathon started again, for we were still in our underwear only. One of the boys had asked Fritz for clothing and Fritz said the English had tough enough skins and they did not need clothing. Then he said: "Wait until you see what our German wlaters are like."

The following morning the engines began to tear away again and the guns started firing. After a while the firing stopped and the engines too, and after an hour they had the old man of the Yarrowdale aboard. She was a British ship chartered by the French and bound for Bristol and Liverpool with a very valuable cargo aboard—airplanes, ammunition, food and automobiles.

When they roared us on deck again the St. Theodore was still in sight, but she had the Yarrowdale for company. Both were trailing behind us and keeping pretty close on. While we were on deck we saw the German sailors at work on the main deck making about ten rafts and when they began to place tins of birdtack on the rafts, a tin to each, we laughed they were going to heave us over the side and let us go on the rafts. But instead they began telling us we would land in the States and then they roared us between decks again.

We had only been there a short time when some of the German officers came down and asked if any of the men would volunteer to go firing on the Yarrowdale and we almost mobbed them to take us. They began putting down the names of the men who were to go and I talked them into putting mine down too. Then I felt about five hundred pounds lighter.

Five o'clock came and by that time I had forgotten to do any worrying. We received our usual rations and most of us who had volunteered figured that we would receive clothes and shoes. In the morning an officer came down below and read out the names of those who were to go and I felt even lighter when he called mine. We were each given a life belt and mustered on deck.

The sea was pretty nasty and some of the men had narrow escapes from falling between the Moewe and the lifeboats when the swells rocked us. One man fell from the ladder and broke his neck on the gunwale of the lifeboat. They took over boat after boat to the Yarrowdale until finally we were all there. Then they mustered us on deck and warned us not to start anything, because they had a time bomb in the engine room and two on the bridge. Meantime they had brought over several boatloads ofhardtack and we threw it into No. 3 hold. This was to be our food for some time.

CHAPTER XVII.

Landed in Germany.

They had a coolie crew on the Yarrowdale and when they routed them on deck the coolies began to pray, and though it is nothing to laugh at I could not help but chuckle at the way some of them went about talking to their various gods. They were beginning to smell danger and were pretty nervous. Every one of the coolies had a cane and a pair of Palm Beach trousers. The Huns were lording them in the lifeboats to be taken back to the Moewe with their sea bags and one of them got too nervous and was slow about getting into the lifeboat, so the Germans shot him without saying a word.

Then the Germans called out the names of those who had volunteered to go stoking and this included me. We were drilled down the fiddle into the fire room. The fiddle is a shaft that runs from the main deck of a ship to the engine room. I looked around a bit and saw a German stoking not very far from the fiddle, so I asked him if we would be given shoes. He said no. Then I asked him if we had to fire in our bare feet and he said yes—that we did not need shoes. Then he went into the engine room.

I looked at the narrow passage he went through and at the narrow passage of the fiddle to the main deck and I talked to my feet like I used to

at Dixmude. I said: "Feet, do your duty." They did it and I flew up the fiddle. I never wanted to see that stoke hole again.

I sneaked up to where the rest of the fellows were and the guards drilled us into No. 4 hold. There was nothing but ammunition in it. They battered the hatches down on us, which made the hold waterproof. And as that made it practically airtight the only air the 580 of us got was through the ventilators. That hold was certainly foul.

They next day some of the men had got cigarettes somewhere. In a few minutes they as well as the rest had lit up and were puffing away in great style. I divided a cigarette with another fellow. Remember, we were sitting and standing on ammunition all this time. It shows how much we cared whether school kept or not.

The Germans saw the smoke coming out of the ventilators and they were crazy with fright. A gang of them laid below and roared us out with whips.

They lined us up on deck and read us the riot act.

They drilled us down into the coal bunkers. It was simply terrible there. Coal dust to breathe and eat and sleep on.

Also, by this time some of the men had lost their heads completely; in fact, had gone violently crazy, and the rest of us were afraid of them. We were all thinking of the fight that might occur any moment between the Yarrowdale and some other vessel and we knew we were in the likeliest place for the vessel to be struck. Even though we were not hit amidsips, if the ship were sinking we did not think the Germans would give us a chance to escape. We figured from what they had said that we would go down with the ship. And going down on a ship in which you are a prisoner is quite different from going down with one for which you have been fighting. You arrive at the same place, but the feeling is different.

Some of us thought of overpowering the crew and taking the vessel into our own hands, and we got the rest of the sane or nearly sane men together and tried to get up a scheme for doing it. I was strong for the plan and so were several others, but the Limey officers who were with us advised against it. They said the Germans were taking us to a neutral country, where we would be interned, which was just what the Germans had told us, but what few of us believed.

Then some others said that if we started anything the Germans would fire the time bombs. We replied that at least the Germans would go west with us, but they could not see that there was any glory in that. For myself, I thought the Germans would not fire the bombs until the last minute, and that we would have a chance at the boats before they got all of us anyway. There were only thirteen German sailors on board, besides their commander. This last Hun was named Badewitz.

So the pacifists ruled, because we could not do anything unless we were all together, and there was no mutiny. They said we were hotheads, the rest of us, but I still think we could have made a dash for it and overpowered our sentries, and either gone over the side with the lifeboats, or taken over the whole ship. It would have been better for us if we had tried, and if the pacifists had known what was coming to us they would have fired the time bombs themselves rather than go on into that future. However, that is split milk.

We were not allowed to open the portholes while we were in the bunkers, under penalty of death, and there in the dark, in that stinking air, it is no wonder many of us went crazy. Among us was a fellow named Harrington, about six feet tall and weighing 250 pounds. He seemed to be all right mentally, but some of us thought afterwards he was crazy. Anyway, I do not blame him for what he did. Harrington rushed up the fiddle and opened the door. There was a German sentry there, and Harrington made a swing at him and then

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.
United States Senator
A. O. STANLEY
For Congress
W. J. FIELDS
of Carter County

Everybody in the world except candidate Roosevelt thoroughly understands the President's messages, which are famous for their clearness.

The people of the United States have let slip several opportunities to elect Roosevelt President. This fact is harder for Roosevelt to understand than Wilson's language.

Congressman Fields asks all his friends to go to the polls and vote for him next Tuesday. He has an opponent, although a great many people do not seem to know that fact. It is important therefore, that Mr. Fields' friends go and vote.

No ex-President or candidate for President of the United States ever before was guilty of such unpatriotic or disgraceful conduct as candidate Roosevelt. He is opposed to everything President Wilson says or does. He didn't like Taft's administration of the nation's affairs, either. In fact Teddy can not reconcile himself to anyone else occupying the Presidency. He was shot into that high office by an assassin's bullet and he hasn't been happy since his term expired. Some of his former admirers are condemning him through the Cincinnati Enquirer and other newspapers of the country for his present course. Roosevelt is a political anarchist. After his own party had given him the highest honors within its power he deserted and denounced it and was egotistical enough to think he could form another party that could win.

Consistency, thou art a scarce article, especially in politics. During the Spanish-American war President McKinley, William Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, Senator Lodge, and all the rooters implored and beseeched the voters to elect a Republican Congress. And they did. Of course that was all right. Look who was doing it. Nobody howled about it. Now President Wilson comes along and does the same thing as McKinley did, under the same kind of circumstances, for the same reason. Oh, what a difference. But really the only difference is the difference in political affiliation. The average politician is as lop-sided as an oyster. He claims the privilege of doing all he pleases to the other fellow, but howls like a German when the other fellow gives him a dose of the same medicine. Boys, there is nothing in the appeal to get excited about. Just read it carefully and you will agree that the document is too mild to furnish an excuse for a riot.

ON BOARD SHIP AND ENROUTE TO FRANCE.

Sept. 12, 1918.
Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Moore, Louisville, Kentucky.
Dear Father and Mother:
Will try to write you a few lines. This leaves me well and enjoying life just fine.
Hope this will find you all well. Well, I left Allentown the 3rd. Guess you thought I had forgotten to write but I haven't. I will write every time I can, so don't be uneasy about me. I guess about 20 letters have come to Allentown since I left there for me, but I won't be able to get them.
Mamma, I never get too far away from home but what I always think of the folks at home and want you to still pray for me and I am trying to live as I should and if we are not permitted to meet on earth I will meet you in Heaven. Wish I was where I could be at church some, but don't know if they have church where I am going.
Tell all the children hello for me and tell the I will write them soon. Tell Willie and Tom I can't write them now but will the first chance. Will write more next time.

IT SHOULD MAKE MILLION FOR HIM

Cincinnati man discovers drug that loosens corns so they lift out.

Good news spreads rapidly and druggists here are kept busy dispensing freezone, the recent discovery of a Cincinnati man, which is said to loosen any corn so it lifts out with the fingers.

A quart of an ounce costs very little at any store which handles drugs. But this is said to be sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You apply just a few drops on the tender, aching corn or toughened callus and instantly the soreness is relieved and the corn or callus is so shriveled up that it lifts out without pain. It is a sticky substance which dries when applied and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin.

This discovery will prevent thousands of deaths annually from lockjaw and infection heretofore resulting from the suicidal habit of cutting corns.

Miss Roba Adams has been visiting relatives at Osie a few days.

Of the boys who went to war, none have been killed and only one, Luther Harmon, has been wounded, but the death toll around in our country from flu has been serious. Wars and pestilence are foretold in prophecy as forerunners of the last days. These things are being fulfilled in our own country while the things spoken of by the prophets concerning Turkey, Palestine and other nations are seemingly coming to pass. Probably we are nearing the end.

Nation-Wide Preparedness

North, South, East, West—all working to put the Nation in fighting trim!

Army and Navy departments and districts, camps, yards, coast-guard stations, light houses, munition, construction and textile plants—all co-ordinating to mould the vast organization into an effective homogeneous force! And in this enormous task the country's telephone network has been and will continue to be the great indispensable agent of communication.

The Bell system has enlisted every resource at its command and offered all unreservedly to the government.

This, together with the immensely increased commercial demand for service, the general shortage of materials, and the enlistment and draft of a large number of technically trained employees who cannot be replaced, will, it is hoped, be borne in mind by every loyal American if there should later result the necessity for subordinating private convenience to the pressing needs of the government.

We are not sitting idly by and waiting for a bright day when our money can buy equipment. We are using every means at our command to keep our service up to its usual high standard. You will want to help because you will be helping your own service and enabling us to do a better job for Uncle Sam.

We appreciate co-operation.

FRANK ADKINS IN FRANCE.

Mrs. G. W. Chapman, of Potter, has received the following letter from her son, Frank Adkins, who has been in France quite a while. He is a carpenter in the aviation service:

Charles, France,

September 29, 1918.

Dear Mother: Will write you this evening. I guess you think I am a long time about writing, but you know I don't like to write very well. I am working nights now and don't get very much time off. I am with the French Aviation and they sure do believe in working long hours.

My company is at Chartres. I am about 15 miles from there. Don't like where I am very well. There is no place to go here. But think the Captain will give us passes to Paris next week. I have always been close to Paris until this last move, but don't guess I'll ever be located near there again.

I guess everybody back home is glad to hear of the Allies' victory. If they keep it up we will all be home soon. I haven't seen a paper in about a week so I guess you know more about the war than I do.

Did you ever get the papers I sent? It seems as though papers don't get through very well. I have received but two Big Sandy News in the last two months.

Tell Jim and George Ed to be sure and send me their pictures and I will send them some of myself taken on top of a wrecked airplane just as soon as I can get them developed.

Write soon and often.

FRANK R. ADKINS,

5th Co., 1st M. M. R. S. C., A. E. F., via New York.

YOUNG LADY AMONG INFLUENZA VICTIMS.

The death of Miss Alta Stepp occurred early Monday morning in Riverside Hospital after a few weeks' illness with influenza. She had been assisting as nurse in the hospital for about six months and at the time she became ill was employed on the case of Mrs. R. A. Miss Stepp was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Stepp who live near Inez. They were both here with her during her illness. She was 23 years old. Her body was taken to her home for burial.

OBITUARY.

On October 14, 1918, the death angel visited the home of W. M. Crisler and took from his loving wife, She was a victim of pneumonia, following influenza. She was 32 years, 1 month and 19 days old. She was a kind and cheerful mother, loved by all who knew her.

She was married to W. M. Crabtree August 25, 1900, and to this union six children were born, all of whom are living save one who has preceded her to the great beyond.

Now the home is sad and lonely. There is a vacancy in the home which never can be filled. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but it was of no avail for God saw fit and she had to go.

She leaves to mourn her loss a companion, five little children, a father, two sisters and five brothers. Weep not, dear ones, but prepare to meet Ella on the other shore where the home circle will never be broken and the good-byes will be no more. She bore her sufferings with great patience and for several hours rested between life and death. But, alas! her sufferings are all over now. She has swept through the pearly gates and is now around God's bright throne.

She was converted several years ago and has lived a devoted Christian life ever since.

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE IS SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quart pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

BLAINE MAN IN CAMP.

Camp Sevier, S. C., Oct. 21, 1918. Big Sandy News, Louisa, Ky.

Just a line or two in the columns of your paper to inform all the friends back in old Kentucky that I am still in the good old U. S. A., but expecting any day to get orders to go over and join the rest of the boys "over there."

We came here from the busy, bustling city of New York, with its many attractions, to the land of the Sunny South, and the fields of cotton and sugar cane to finish our training that we may help finish the Hun.

Our experience while in New York was a wonderful one, and our trip south is one that we shall never forget passing through some of the larger cities and historic sections of our country until we arrived here at Camp Sevier, although bleak with perpetual sunshine and its stately pines its name fully implies all that it is.

All the boys that left with me in May are in the same company and with no exceptions all are in fine spirits and enjoying the best of health. The flu has not made an attack on any of us yet and not very many cases reported in the camp considering the large number of men here.

Notwithstanding the peace rumors that are flooding the country every day we expect to eat our Thanksgiving dinner somewhere in France, and I think that there is but one thing that is to be with that victorious army that crosses the Rhine.

With regards to everybody back home, and wishing the News success, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

HUBERT PACK,

Co. A, 50th Infantry.

Sam Lyons' wife and little daughter died of influenza on Muddy Branch and were brought here to their home and buried in the family burying ground last week.

Three members of the family have died since they were stricken with the epidemic and others of his family are still ill, but are thought to be somewhat improved.

A small child of Mrs. Nora Miller was brought here from its home at Catlettsburg and buried in the family graveyard on Crisley Branch last Saturday. It died of the flu.

There are several whole families down with the "flu" in this and adjoining neighborhoods.

Jeff Chandler accidentally shot himself in the foot last Saturday and was taken to Hilyview Hospital where he is reported to be getting along nicely. Irvin Bevins and Miss Ollie Fitch were married recently.

DEFEAT WOULD HAMPER NATION SAYS PRESIDENT

DIVIDED CONTROL WOULD SERIOUSLY INTERFERE WITH CONDUCT OF WAR.

Washington, — President Wilson issued an appeal to the people to return a Democratic Congress in the November elections if they approve of his course in this critical period.

Following is the President's appeal: "My Fellow-Countrymen:

"The Congressional elections are at hand. They occur in the most critical period our country has ever faced or is likely to face in our time. If you have approved of my leadership and wish me to continue to be your unembarrassed spokesman in affairs at home and abroad, I earnestly beg that you will express yourselves unmistakably to that effect by returning a Democratic majority to both the Senate and House of Representatives.

"I am your servant and will accept your judgment without cavil, but my power to administer the great trust assigned me by the constitution would be seriously impaired should your judgment be adverse, and I must frankly tell you so because so many critical issues depend upon your verdict. No scruple of taste must in grim times like these be allowed to stand in the way of speaking the plain truth.

Divided Leadership.

"I have an thought of suggesting that any political party is paramount in matters of patriotism. I feel too deeply the sacrifices which have been made in this war by all our citizens irrespective of party affiliations to harbor such an idea. I mean only that the difficulties and delicacies of our present task are of a sort that makes it imperative necessary that the nation should give its undivided support to the government under a unified leadership and that a Republican Congress would divide the leadership.

Unity of Command.

"The leaders of the minority in the present Congress have unquestionably been pro-war, but they have been anti-administration. At almost every turn since we entered the war they have sought to take choice of policy and the conduct of the war out of my hands and put it under the control of instrumentalities of their own choosing. "This is no time either for divided council or for divided leadership. "Unity of command is as necessary now in civil action as it is upon the field of battle. If the control of the House and the Senate should be taken away from the party now in power an opposing majority could assume control of legislation and oblige all action to be taken amidst contest and obstruction.

Interpretation Abroad.

"The return of a Republican majority to either House of the Congress would, moreover, be interpretative on the other side of the water as a repudiation of my leadership. Spokesmen of the Republican party are urging you to elect a Republican Congress in order to back up and support the President, but even if they should in this impose upon some credulous voters on this side of the water, they would impose on no one on the other side. It is well understood there as well as here that the Republican leaders desire not so much to support the President, as to control him.

"The people of the allied countries with whom we are associated against Germany are quite familiar with the significance of elections. They would find it very difficult to believe that the voters of the United States had so chosen to support their President by electing to the Congress a majority controlled by those who are in fact not in sympathy with the attitude and action of the administration.

"I need not tell you, my fellow-countrymen, that I am asking your support, not for my own sake or for the sake of a political party, but for the sake of the nation itself in order that its onward unity of purpose may be evident to all the world. In ordinary times divided councils can be endured without permanent hurt to the country. But these are not ordinary times.

"If in these critical days it is your wish to sustain me with undivided minds, I beg that you will say so in a way which it will not be possible to misunderstand either at home or among our associates on the other side of the sea. I submit my difficulties and my hopes to you.

THE SECOND LINE OF DEFENSE

From the Mississippi valley to the flaming front in Flanders is not as far today as the distance from Paris to Berlin. The Atlantic ocean is not as wide as the River Somme. The girl in the munition factory in the middle West is very close to her brother in the front-line trenches. If her work falters, if one untrue torpedo passes the careful scrutiny of the inspector, the lives of American soldiers pay the price.

It is as necessary to keep the girl who makes the shells physically fit and high of courage as the man who fires the gun.

The glory and excitement of war are for the man in khaki. Gridding, monotonous labor far away from the flying flags and martial music is the portion of the girl who makes munitions.

One and a half million women and girls have marched into the service of the United States government, to take the places of the men who have been called to the colors. With every draft and with the opening of every munition cantonment the number is multiplied. These girls work long hours and the work is hard and monotonous. Furthermore, they work at high nervous tension. On the skill of their fingers and the accuracy of their eyes depends the lives of many soldiers, the winning or losing of many battles.

"I can't sleep at night because I'm so afraid I may have passed on something that was not quite true," said one young girl not yet in her twenties, who inspected hundreds of torpedoes every day.

Unless something can make this girl forget at night, had find some rest, her hand will lose its cunning.

"Nights and Sundays," said another, "I walk and walk, and I never go the same route twice until I have worn out all the others, and yet I can't forget that perhaps some time, somehow, during the day something may have gone through that was not quite right."

"I was just on the edge of going back home," said another. "I couldn't stand it. Then the recreation leader asked me if I played basket ball, and I told her I was too old. I'm twenty-eight. She insisted that I just try throwing the ball, and now I'm captain of the basket ball team. I play tennis, and can 'set up' and 'wig-wag,' and they're going to make me forewoman of the goons. That would have frightened me to death once. But everything is different now, that we have our War Service club."

The war department had seen the need of occupations for out-of-work hours if the employees were to work at their greatest efficiency, and through the ordinance department asked the Young Women's Christian Association for recreation leaders, to line up the girls and direct their free-time pleasures.

The government reminded the Y. W. C. A. that as an organization it always had had an interest in the right feeding of girls, and in the right education of girls, and that the intelligent care of these girls in the munition factories was one of the essentials in the winning of the war. The government could house and feed them. It could put up recreation buildings, but when this was done it was as helpless as the father of a motherless girl. The government is a composite man. He didn't know what a girl should do when the six o'clock factory whistle blew. He only knew she needed looking after and he called to the one woman's organization that for half a century had made a study of the needs of girls. Vaguely, he had an idea that she should be encouraged to play, that she needed wholesome recreation, and some one, wise and sympathetic as a careful mother, to guide her social activities.

The Blue Triangle sent its play lady to salute and go to work. Workers are asked for in recreation buildings of all the 22 federal industrial reservations or munition cantonments which have been opened this summer in several of the states. These reservations sprung up out of the very fields in a few weeks. They are employing thousands of workers. Many of these women have come from far distant homes. The government provided dormitories and mess barracks. In some places it is putting up recreation buildings. Where such a building is not provided by the government, the Y. W. C. A. will furnish it, using one already standing when available, and building when that is necessary. All these buildings, whether government or association-owned, will operate under the sign of the Blue Triangle. They will have big living rooms, assembly rooms for entertainments, club rooms, and gymnasiums. The Blue Triangle will furnish a program of service work, educational classes, games and entertainments. Military and signal corps drills will be in charge of soldiers.

In Washington, the members of the Business Women's council, a Blue Triangle league of the Y. W. C. A., made up of girl government employees, drill twice a week under an army officer, and between five and six o'clock on these days long lines of motorcars are parked to watch the drill.

Wherever possible the recreation equipment includes a field somewhere for outdoor sports.

War clubs are a part of the plan and membership in these involves a pledge to serve to the best of the girl's ability in the ranks of the Women's Industrial Army—the "second line of defense," and a promise of loyalty by promoting in every possible way the spirit of service.

THE WESTERN FRONT AT HOME

Earn and give. For a year the young people of America have been coached in thrift. Instead of the old problem in the arithmetic book, "If Mary's mother gave her three apples, Jane gave her two, and she ate one, how many would she have?" the third grade girl is now sent to the blackboard to solve, "How many Thrift stamps at 25 cents apiece will Mary own at the end of 12 months if she saves 10 cents a week?"

The girl in the grade above her is learning in her arithmetic lesson how many Thrift stamps it takes to buy the yarn for 500 helmets for the soldiers in France. Still further on the eighth grade is told to figure in terms of War Savings stamps how much it costs to supply a regiment of Uncle Sam's men with shelter tents.

And now the Earn and Give club of the younger girls of the Young Women's Christian association is organized to turn those Thrift lessons into giving. The children of America have been turning in pennies and alikes and pasting a green stamp on their Thrift card. The Earn and Give club can now use some of those cards and War Savings stamps in their campaign among the younger people for the united war fund.

This fall when the war council of the Y. W. C. A. made plans for the 1918 war drive, it included in its program the rule that no young girls under eighteen can do any soliciting, on the streets or otherwise. They can give, but they can only give by earning. Consequently in order to coordinate the efforts of the girls in all the districts over the country, the Earn and Give club is enrolling members and has given out an estimate of $3 apiece to be earned for the war fund campaign by the American girls who still count their age in teens. Five dollars apiece from the younger girls of the country will mean that the nation as a whole will fill its charitable organizations' war chest.

Some high school girl in New York city is going to earn her $5 by shining her own shoes instead of stopping at the Greek stand on her way to school and by making her own sandwiches for her noon lunch. Out in Iowa the girl who has been spending 15 cents plus war tax for a movie three nights a week is going to draw a line through the movie habit except when there is an especially good bill. More than one girl plans to clean all her own gloves this winter and to salvage all the paper and collections of junk about the house which should be sold to the junk man to be worked over into some productive industry. The girls in their teens are going to earn instead of ask others for the money. They are to sacrifice and give in their own names and older women will make the public requests for money elsewhere.

Many of the girls who are waiting to join the Earn and Give club are already Patriotic Leaguers, and they have learned several practical lessons in the thrift that will make them effective members of the new club by their conservation of fruits and vegetables. They have canned and pickled. Now when the end of summer brings the beginning of school they will change their thrift into winter thrift and begin saving their $5 for the Y. W. C. A. war fund.

"Wherever You Are is the Western Front" is the slogan which the Earn and Give club has adopted. Anna, one of the thirteen-year-old daughters of New York's East side, who was one of the first and youngest members to join the campaign at a New York settlement house, had to have it explained to her that instead of western front meaning fight and fight meaning fists, the western front means work and work means save in order to give.

The girl who joins the Earn and Give club will discover that in conjunction with her working and saving in order that her club will furnish its quota of the money that is going to help the girls like herself in France and Belgium, she will also find numerous ways in the community to help the war that she had never dreamed of. She will see that all the fruit pits and stores that can be saved from her own dining table and from those of her neighbors, are dropped into the little red barrel at the corner, in order that the carbon which the seeds contain can be used in making charcoal for the American soldiers' gas masks. She will save all the tin foil that she sees for the Red Cross. She will help collect clothing for the French and Belgian orphans and perhaps send them some of her own.

School girls in India, children from squallid, dirty homes, with absolutely no spending money, gave last year to Belgian and Armenian relief when they themselves were not getting enough to eat. They gave up their meat once a week for the Belgians, though they only had it twice a week themselves, and for the Armenians they set aside the handful of fresh grain that otherwise each girl would have ground in her own little stone mill. Both contributions, from all the girls in one missionary's school, amounted only to $5 a month. "But it was a tremendous sacrifice," their teacher writes, "although a joyous one. It actually went less bread each day, and once a week a meal of dry bread and water. This was done by 80 girls from the meanest homes in the world—children between the ages of five and fifteen."

Four hundred thousand girls in 47 states have become Patriotic Leaguers since America declared war. If as many school girls and working girls from all classes pledge to earn and give, the united war fund campaigners will have $2,000,000 of their $170,500,000.

A BIT OF HOME WITHIN THE CAMP

A long, low building of frame construction, attractively planned, with wide verandas and a homelike aspect. Outside are hanging the flags—the Stars and Stripes, which must soon be taken in as it is nearly sunset, and another flag bearing a little triangle of blue and the letters Y. W. C. A. It is a fall afternoon and the air is a bit sharp. Through the front windows of the house the woman approaching up the walk can see the cheerful glow of an open fireplace. There is the sound of a piano and some one is singing.

The woman, who is slight and young and tired-looking, puts her heavy suitcase down on the walk and shifts the baby she is carrying to the other arm. She listens a minute, then picks up the luggage and walks bravely up to the front door. Some one has heard her coming and is there to meet her. Some one always is in places like this. The door is thrown open and a kind woman's voice says: "Oh, do come in and rest. Let me take the baby." The baby is passed over and the stranger, worn from a long journey, tired and sad, is given the welcome which only the Y. W. C. A. hostesses know how to give.

She explains that she has come to see John before he leaves for the front. She has been saving her money for traveling expenses, and has come to surprise him. John has never seen the baby, and now maybe he never will, for she has discovered that John has just left on a two days' furlough to surprise her. Before she could get a train back to her home John's furlough will have expired and he will be on his way back to camp. The little mother does not know how to meet the situation and tears of fatigue and disappointment begin to flow.

"Well, that's too bad," says the sympathetic Y. W. C. A. worker. "But cheer up. You can just stay here for a couple of days. We'll send a wire to John at the first place his train stops and tell him to take the next train back. He can enjoy his furlough here."

This is done and the little family has a glorious day of it.

The Young Women's Christian association has established 92 hostess houses of this character for American soldiers and sailors and their families. In this brief bulletin of news lies one of the most potent factors in the winning of this war. Our boys are fighting for their homes. The Y. W. C. A. with its hostess work in this country and in France is helping to keep the ideal of American home life constantly before the men who are protecting it. These men had to go away from their individual homes, but there is a home which follows them—a place where they can go when they are off duty and meet their families and rest. There is a room in every Y. W. C. A. hostess house with a real fireplace in it and a domestic hearth. There are chairs with cushions on them; the china is not of the iron-bound bucket variety necessary in camps; and best of all, the boys say, there are nice women to talk to. No boy in camp would hesitate to ask his mother or sister or the girl he thinks most of to meet him at a Y. W. C. A. house, for he knows that the women she will see there are of the right kind. The very fact that it is known that there is a real, homely place near each camp authorized by the war department and presided over by dignified and refined women, has served very largely to discourage the other type of woman and keep her away from the men she formerly preyed upon.

The Y. W. C. A. houses are not established with any view to marking class lines, however, although many of the hostesses, who assist led lives of greatest ease and luxury before the war. Democracy rules at the sign of the little Blue Triangle.

A story is told of a great merchant's wife whose individual fortune mounts to the million mark. This lady is a member of one of the Y. W. C. A. committees, and on one occasion she was helping in the cafeteria of a hostess house at the Great Lakes naval training station. A little shopgirl who had a "day off" from her work in the basement of the great store owned by the Y. W. C. A. worker's husband, and who had come to see her sailor brother, was in a State street hurry for service. She sharply ordered the merchant's wife to "look alive with these forks, girlie."

The lady addressed as "girlie" quite humbly saw to it that the pile of forks was replenished. Then she went over and talked to the girl, helped her to locate her brother and sent her away happy. The shopgirl never knew that she had been talking to her employer's wife.

There are two hostess houses at the Great Lakes station, and it is a wonderful sight to see the crowds of women relatives and friends of the sailors who throng to them on the Wednesday drill afternoons. From 1,000 to 3,000 persons a day are cared for in the cafeterias, and the nurseries are full of sailor babies, whose mothers can leave them there safely while they are on the grounds.

In addition to the hostess house work in this country the Y. W. C. A. has established the famous Hotel Petrograd in Paris as a center for transient women war workers overseas. There are also many taverns or recreation centers in France where, girl munition workers, signal corps girls and others are refreshed and brightened by association with the play leaders of the Y. W. C. A. who have introduced American gymnasium classes into French life.

SELECT SEED CORN AT ONCE

Every one remembers the trouble they had with seed corn last year, yet many farmers took chances and planted from corn in their bins. Now the prospects are not the best in the world for good seed next year and the coming winter may be just as severe as the last, so you can't afford to take any chances this time. Besides, if you have a good strain of corn it never pays to buy seed from someone else. If you select and care for several bushels of seed corn this fall, you not only take a step to improve your seed for next year but you will be sure to have some less provident neighbors that you can sell to in the spring at a good price. Here are some rules which will act as a guide to anyone who is farsighted enough to save his seed corn now:

- 1—Save seed this fall in the field.
- 2—Secure from hills with two or more stalks.
- 3—Secure from stalks bearing two or more ears.
- 4—Secure ears at proper height from ground.
- 5—Secure shanks with medium length and ears hanging down.
- 6—Select ears of good length.
- 7—Select ears well rounded over at tips.
- 8—Select ears large around.
- 9—Select for small cob and large kernels.
- 10—Select ears with wedge-shaped grains.
- 11—Select ears with grains in straight rows.
- 12—Select ears with grains plump and tight on the cob.
- 13—Select this fall for spring may be too late.

You can readily see that it is impossible to follow the most of these important rules unless you select in the field this fall.

In the first place, an ear that has grown in a hill of two or more stalks and is as large or almost as an ear that grew in a hill of one stalk is naturally a more vigorous one and should make better seed, other things being equal. Again, if you take your seed from stalks with two ears on them even if not quite so large as where only one grew you can in a few years develop a strain of corn that will almost invariably produce two ears to the stalk.

Then it is an advantage to have ears from three and one half to five feet from the ground not only because it is easier to handle for cutting, topping, etc., but also because your corn will ripen more evenly and all be ready to harvest at the same time.

Again, it is a waste to have ears with a shank a foot long, while if they are short and stubby holding the ear upright it allows rain and insects and birds to damage and injure the ear. If the shank is moderately long and limber, allowing the ear to hang down at about 45 degrees, it will shed the water, give protection from birds, allow the dew and rain to run off, and often will stand until winter undamaged. Every one knows that throughout the animal and vegetable kingdom "like produces like" and this holds wonderfully true in the selection of seed corn. Also we know that severe freezing injures seed corn if it is not perfectly dry and even then it does it no good, so be on the safe side and store your seed in a dry place. Corn at the driest we can get it in July or August contains from 5 to 10 per cent of moisture.

Yours for success,
G. C. BAKER,
County Agent.

"Gots-It," a Liberty Bottle for Corns!

There's Only One Genuine "Gots-It"
Peeler—That's "Gots-It!"

Don't peel a banana? That's the way "Gots-It" peels off corns. It's the only corn treatment that will
"Gots-It" is a guarantee that you won't finally have to gouge, pick, jerk or cut out your corns. If you want the pleasure of getting rid of a corn, be sure to get "Gots-It."
It is its wonderful formula
that has made "Gots-It" the corn marvel that it is, used by more millions than any other corn treatment on earth. A few drops on any corn or callus, that's all. It can't stick. It is painless, eases pain.
You can kick your "corny" foot around, even in tight shoes, and your corns won't crucify you. You can go ahead and work, dance, live, love
and laugh as though without corns.
"Gots-It" is the guaranteed, money-back, corn-remover, the only sure way, costs but a trifling sum.

DAILY REVIEW

Sunday.
Between the Uls and the Sarre
the French are pushing ahead accompanied by tanks. In the British 2,300 prisoners were taken. The British in the region of Valenciennes are drawing the net tighter around that city and continuing to make progress from the enemy, Valenciennes, it is said, is doomed, while the fall of Le Quesnoy is only a question of a few days. The Italians are pressing forward, gaining new positions and capturing numerous prisoners.

No official confirmation was received in Washington last night on the rumors that Austria had ordered the demobilization of her army or that Turkey would make an offer for separate peace. Reports from Germany indicate that the people fear a financial stringency and runs on the banks are not an uncommon occurrence. It is also reported that the Prussian House has passed the electoral bills.

Increased express rates will be initiated shortly by the American Railway Express Company with the approval of Director General of Railways Nicholas. The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved of the method of applying the higher rates, half of the amount to go to the express company and half to meet contemplated wage increases.

Major Gen. John E. McMahon, who has been commander of the 5th Division overseas, has been ordered to Camp Zachary Taylor to assume command. Gen. McMahon, during the Spanish-American War, served in the Philippines. It is expected that Brig. Gen. Austin, now camp commander, will be transferred to overseas service.

Resolutions opposing an armistice
with Germany except such as provide ample military guarantees for the carrying out of President Wilson's peace terms, were approved
last night by the Administrative Committee of the Social Democratic League, an organization of Socialists, in New York yesterday.

German propaganda is at work in Brazil to injure the trade between that country and the United States.
It was learned yesterday that German agents had promised to sell cotton goods to Brazil merchants at pre-war prices.

Tourist civilians to the number
of 22,000 have refused to evacuate
the town despite the order of the German officials that they do so. Six thousand Belgian refugees are reported to have reached Holland thus far.

There were 342 casualties when the Canadian Pacific steamer Prince
cess Sophia, from an Alaskan port,
was wrecked on a reef during a gale.
Not a soul on board survived.

The French are pushing on against the Hunding Stellung in the face of strong resistance over ground strewn with anti-tank mines.

Saturday.
The growth of the British navy
since the war began is shown in figures made public yesterday. The fleet has increased from 2,500,000
tons displacement to 5,500,000 tons
and the personnel from 145,000 to 400,000.

To-day at Independence Hall in Philadelphia the small oppressed nations of Europe will declare a new liberty. The delegates to the conference have declared that there must be absolute freedom for all the races represented.

The London evening papers greet President Wilson's answer to Germany with unqualified approval. The Pall Mall Gazette says that the world will realize that the President carries an iron hand under a velvet glove.

The attack by Italian and British forces on the Italian front is timed to take advantage of the reported unrest in Austria, according to the New York Times military expert, in the belief that a defeat would force
the dual monarchy to sue for immediate peace.

Thanks to PERUNA

Mrs. Kate Marquis, Middleburg, Logan Co., Ohio,
writes as follows:
"I have used Peruna with success. It has cured me of catarrh of the head and throat. It is the best medicine for catarrh that I have ever used. I am completely cured. Thanks to Peruna."
Mrs. Marquis is but one of many thousands who know the value of Peruna for that catarrhal condition of the membranes
responsible for many of the human ills.

I
Am
Completely Cured

If you object to liquid remedies

around Valenciennes seems to be approaching a critical stage. The British continued to force their way ahead and, with the flames forest cleared, the water barriers to the north partially overcome, and Mor-
mud forest on the south invested, it appeared that the gateway to Mons and Maubeuge between the two forts soon will be forced. The French are making more rapid progress on the Aisne and Suippe up Oise-Serre salient. Possibly the thickly-placed German reserves in this sector have been withdrawn to meet the British menace. The Franco-American armies east and west of the Meuse have been steadily improving their tactical positions.

GIRLS! HAVE WAVY THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DAND- RUFF

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments—try this.

If you care for heavy hair, that glis-
ters with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and a fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.
Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy healthy hair if you have dandruff.
This destructive scrub rubs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life
and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp;
the hair turns flimsy, loosens and die;
then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily
get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment
you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp, and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now.

HOME CIRCLE

REGARDING CHILDREN.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had a New York
father brought into court to answer
charges of whipping his ten-year-old son recently.

The boy had been discovered by an agent of the society. His body was covered with welts which had been caused by a whip in the hands of his father.

When the clerk of the court called the case the father stepped to the judge. The case was entered in the books. The welts were counted. The father was called upon for an explanation and stated that his boy had run away from home and did not return until very late at night. The boy was called on and said simply that he had disobeyed his father and that in return for it he had been beaten
until he had fallen down and fainted.

And then the judge made his decision. He rebuked the society which had caused the father's arrest, rebuked the boy for disobeying his father,
and dismissed the defendant with the statement, "The boy should have received ten times more punishment

than he did."
All of which shows little except that there are some fathers who respect their boys no more than they respect cattle; and that there are some judges who know as much of boydom as the kaiser knows about real Christianity.

No boy who has the proper kind of home care and home training commits petty offenses which merit his being beaten by a whip until he falls
over unconscious. Fathers who do most of their correcting with a strap
or a willow switch are merely attempting in a futile manner to correct mistakes which they themselves made when they did not bring their boy up properly. Fathers who are companions for their sons do not have to be weapon wielders against their sons. And parents who use care and consideration and exercise real
attention and interest in their children are never forced to use Hun tricks in making their boys behave.

"Spare the rod and spoil the child,"
may be all right—in some isolated cases. But even then the old slogan said nothing about continuous lashings having any virtue.

If anybody deserves to be lashed
until he falls over it is the father who mistreats his child—or the judge who releases a child-beater without even a reprimand.

JUST A MATTER OF MANNER.

It was during the busiest hour for the street cars—and for street car patrons. It was after the working day was ended and hundreds of people
wanted to get home, says an exchange.
One street car was fairly well filled.
People were standing and holding the straps.

"Move on up there!" said the conductor. His voice was harsh and his words were given more like an order
than as a suggestion or a request.
The people in the aisle did not budge.
Nobody moved up toward the front.
"Get on up there!" again ordered the conductor. But again nobody moved toward the front of the car to make room for the people who wanted to get home on the car just as much as did
the ones who happened to be on.

But there were another car, on another line, people were standing in the aisle of this car also and some were holding to the straps.

"Please move up a little in front,"
said the conductor. "There are some women who want to get in. Thanks."
He spoke like a human being. His last remark must have agreed with him.
There was no picky expression with his words.

And the people moved up in front.
They made room for a number of folks who wanted to get home. And the people in the car were beginning to act a little happy and jolly despite the inconveniences of travel which accompany a snowed-in winter.

All of which goes to show that the matter of manner has something to it.
A grouch expresses himself when he talks. And a happy, good-natured man
also expresses himself when he talks.
Folks were made that way. They cannot help it. It is the same with telephone operators, elevator men in the office buildings, drug clerks, cigar
clerks, employees of the big stores,
school teachers, lawyers and all others.
The man who entertains a grouch
will express his grouch when he opens
his mouth—and the people will usually not do more than they have to do to help him out. And the man whose inside are humming with joy and whose good disposition supply is so large that it just seems to bubble

over—well, his disposition is catching
as a yawn.

But this isn't aimed at street car
conductors. They are in the minority.
It is aimed at the whole common people set. The young woman can go about the kitchen work after breakfast in such a way as to make mother
happy; or she can start in such a manner as to generate a grouch in the whole household, a grouch which will last during most of the remainder of the day. And if dad decided to mope things up at the house before he goes by informing ma that the pancakes would make good shoe
leather, he will not only make ma unhappy for the day but he will discover that he himself is unable to work
up to his usual capacity or live up to his real capacity.

No boy goes out from the home Circle without a sense of loss. For a time at least, the motherly presence is sadly missed, the sisterly affection warmly cherished. Then if the mother's letters reach him often,
filled with all that a mother most clo-
quently expresses love, hopefulness
and prayer, he is still surrounded by a holy influence.

WAR WORK

American women
nurses are installed
eight miles in the rear of the fighting
lines "over there."
Right here at home
many women
should learn nursing to take care of the sick or, in emergencies, the wounded. You can learn a great deal
by obtaining the
"Medical Adviser,"
a book of 1,000
pages, bound in cloth,
containing chapters
on First Aid, Bandaging, Anatomy, Hygiene, Sex Problems, Mother and Baby.
200 prescriptions for acute and chronic diseases; profusely illustrated by woodcuts and colored plates. Ask your druggist or send 50c to Publisher, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

If a woman is nervous or has dizzy spells, suffers from awful pains at regular intervals she should turn to a tonic made up of herbs, and without alcohol, which makes weak women
strong and sick women well. It is Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Send Dr.
Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 10c for trial pkg.
Then, for the liver and bowels nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Baltimore, Md.—
It has been my pleasure to recommend Dr.
Pierce's remedy for the past 37 years and I have never known them to fail
in giving desired results.
I was suffering with a complication of troubles.
I had pains all over my body and my heart seemed weak. I had been doctoring for months with our best
doctors and had obtained no relief. I was discouraged and wrote
to Dr. Pierce's Invalid
Hotel advice. I started taking "Favorite Prescription," "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Pleasant Pellets." I improved from the very start and eventually was cured of my ailments—was in perfect health.—Mrs. Lydia J. Rice, 1933 W. Franklin St.

H. G. SOWARDS, Principal
PAINTSVILLE, KENTUCKY

TERM OPENS MONDAY, SEPTEMBER ELEVENTH 1914.

ADVANTAGES—

Teachers of broad experience and adequate equipment.
Christian environment. Active religious influences. A Christian character is built on the Rock of Eternal Truth and will stand unshaken amid the shock and storm of life's battle. This ought to be the first consideration in selecting a school. Here you have Christianity and religious influences in positive terms.

Academic—Good high school or college preparatory courses. All the required subjects and a number of electives. Standard course admitting to any college.

Normal—Courses offered meeting the State requirement.
Teachers also have best opportunities in preparation for examination and what is better a thorough preparation for successful teaching.

Commercial—Strong course in bookkeeping, short hand, typewriting and correlative subjects. Our graduates equipped to fill the best positions. Unusual opportunities are now offered through the business course.

Musical—Piano and Voice. This department has well deserved the praise it receives. We have had the most than the average success and the course for this year is to be strengthened.

Expression—Kentucky is noted for oratory. It is a talent of marvelous power and when properly developed and cultivated makes one master of assemblies. We believe it is a grave mistake to neglect this talent and are offering a splendid course in physical culture and expression.

Grades—So many people living in the rural communities desire for their children better school advantages and at the same time home care. In our elementary department we offer this opportunity. Our teachers are grade masters having had special training for the grade work,
and in our dormitory the teachers will continue in charge. This gives you the advantage of the best schooling and also the same careful oversight of the home.

OUR DORMITORY—Girl students will be required to board in the dormitory where they will be under the immediate care of the teachers. This is not done to curtail liberties but to give to these young ladies that helpful sympathetic experience that is so essential in the development of a wise and stable character.

INFORMATION—We invite you to visit our campus and if you are thinking of sending your boy or girl away for the year's schooling,
we urge you to investigate the opportunities offered by SANDY VALLEY SEMINARY. Write to H. G.
Sowards, Principal, Paintsville, Ky., for any further information you may desire.

Do This Each Morning, You Won't Need Cascarets

Great exercise! Keeps Stomach, Liver and Bowels active. Nothing like it! Splendid!
But if you insist upon taking your exercise in an easy chair you simply must take a laxative
occasionally. The very, very best laxative is Cascarets
—10 cents a box. "They work while you sleep."

Nothing else works the bile, sour fermentations and poison from the liver and bowels like harmless Cascarets. When Headachy, Bilious, Constipated or if Breath is Tainted, Complexion Sallow, Stomach Sour, just take a Cascaret at night. Wake up next morning looking rosy and feeling fine. Cascarets never gripe or sicken. Come so inconspicuous!

WALBRIDGE.

Friends of Mr. Henderson Wells, who lives near here, were grieved to hear of his being thrown from a horse while riding and the result is a broken leg. He is, however, reasonably well. Much sympathy is extended Mr. Wells and family. He has two sons in the fighting line in France—one from whom he has had no word since July. The Red Cross is now trying to locate him for his parents.

This community was again deeply grieved when death took one of our best citizens, Mr. Alex E. Stump. Mr. Stump was an honorable and industrious citizen and leaves a wife, an adopted daughter, Miss Anna, a number of relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss. His family has the deepest sympathy of our community.

Citizens of our community have been suffering with the dreaded disease, influenza, for several weeks in some instances the entire family would be down at the same time. Those who have influenza of this writing are Pvt. John J. C. See, of Camp Sheridan, Ala. who came for the funeral of his brother-in-law A. F. Stump, Miss Jack C. See, Mrs. Alex Stump and daughter Anna, Herbert and Larkin Peters, Otis Ferrell and Mrs. J. Crit See, Sr.

Cards have been received from Henry H. See, stating he had arrived safely overseas.

Glenn M. Ferrell who has been in Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. has been transferred to Camp Merritt, New Jersey. He expects to leave soon for overseas duty.

Mrs. Jane Peters received a letter recently from her son Dave, who is in France. He was still in hospital but expected to leave soon for the front. He has been on firing line and received a bullet wound in his shoulder.

Mrs. Peters has another son, Weizle, stationed at Camp Sheridan, Ala.

We have had no Sunday School Church or school here since the influenza epidemic, but hope they can open again soon.

GARRETT.

We are at last in the throes of the "flu." We now have it in full force, and it is spreading rapidly. No deaths and but little pneumonia as yet but the attending physicians advise us that quite a good deal of pneumonia will result as conditions now show.

Wayland had 183 cases and eight deaths. Lackey had 53 cases and four deaths.

The victims in Garrett in the most serious condition are, Supt. A. C. Tokey, J. J. Breckenridge, Roby Hughes Green Howard and an infant child of Hubert Hughes.

The business department of Joseph Collins was closed the last of last week on account of the death of his brother, Tilden Collins, of Prestonsburg. His remains were brought here last Friday and then taken to the old family graveyard farther up, Beaver and laid to rest on Saturday last.

His untimely death is deeply deplored, he having been elected to the office of Superintendent of Public Schools of this county and had begun to work them out in a most satisfactory manner. He was an exemplary citizen, loved and respected by all who knew him, but death having no special respect for the human family, called him. He answered the summons amid the anguish and grief of his many friends.

His death was a great shock to the entire community, but we all bow to him who death all things well.

An oil derrick is now being erected on the lands of Will Eastep, here, and drilling will start within the next few days.

We are informed that two weddings took place Saturday but can't say just now how true.

J. D. MCCLINTOCK DEAD.

Mr. Jeff Newberry, of Huntington, received word Wednesday of the death of his son-in-law, John D. McClintock, which occurred at Salt Lake City, Utah, on Wednesday from influenza. The remains will be brought to Huntington and will probably arrive Sunday or Monday.

Mr. Charley Rice is very ill at this writing.

I. A. Belcher will move to Ashland soon.

Let us hear from Tuscola.

PAINTSVILLE.

WALBRIDGE.

Friends of Mr. Henderson Wells, who lives near here, were grieved to hear of his being thrown from a horse and riding and the result in a broken leg. He is resting reasonably well, such sympathy as extended Mr. Wells and family. He has two sons in the firing line in France—one from whom he has had no word since July. The Red Cross is now trying to locate him for his parents.

This community was again deeply grieved when death took one of our best citizens, Mr. Alex. P. Stump, Mr. Stump was an honorable and industrious citizen and leaves a wife, an adopted daughter, Miss Anna, a nurse of relatives and a host of friendly neighbors. His family has the deepest sympathy of our community.

Citizens of our community have been suffering with the dreaded disease, influenza, for several weeks in some instances the entire family would be down at the same time. Those who have influenza of this writing are Pvt. John J. C. See, of Camp Sheridan, Ala. who came for the funeral of his brother-in-law A. F. Stump, Miss Jack C. See, Mrs. Alex Stump and daughter Anna, of Hockport and Larkin Peters, of Otis Ferrell and Mrs. J. Crit See, Sr.

Carls have been received from Henry H. See, stating he had arrived safely overseas.

Glenn M. Ferrell who has been in Camp Wheeler, Macon, Ga. has been transferred to Camp Merritt, New Jersey. He expects to leave soon for overseas duty.

Mrs. Jane Peters received a letter recently from her son Dave, who is in France. He was still in hospital but expected to leave soon for the front. He has been on firing line and received a bullet wound in his shoulder.

Mrs. Peters has another son, Weizle, stationed at Camp Sheridan, Ala.

We have had no Sunday School Church or school here since the influenza epidemic, but hope they can open again soon.

GARRETT

We are at last in the toils of the "flu". We now have 115 cases fully developed with the disease spreading rapidly. No deaths and but little pneumonia as yet but the attending physicians advise us that quite a good deal of pneumonia will result as conditions now show.

Wayland had 183 cases and eight deaths. Lackey had 53 cases and four deaths.

The victims in Garrett in the most serious condition are, Supt. A. T. Toney, B. J. Breckenridge, Roby Hughes, Green Howard and an infant child of Hubert Hughes.

The business department of Joseph Collins was closed the last of last week on account of the death of his brother, Tilden Collins, of Prestonsburg. His remains were brought here last Friday and then taken to the old family graveyard farther up Beaver and laid to rest on Saturday last.

His untimely death is deeply deplored, he having been elected to the office of Superintendent of Public Schools of this county and had begun to work them out in a most satisfactory manner. He was an exemplary citizen, loved and respected by all who knew him, but death having no special respect for the human family, called him. He answered the summons amid the anguish and grief of his many friends.

His death was a great shock to the entire community, but we all bow to Him who doeth all things well.

An oil derrick is now being erected on the lands of Will Batey, here, and drilling will start within the next few days.
